Causes of the Rise of Imperialism in the U.S. at the Turn of the 20th Century

- A belief that the nation had a right to take over new lands. Manifest Destiny
- The perceived moral obligation to extend America's way of life to others.
- American citizens were already migrating into new lands in North America.
- An increased need for foreign trade for economic growth led to a growing interest in gaining control over foreign markets.
- A fear that European nations would gain control of strategic locations that were important to the United States.
